Analysis Group Promotes Health Economics and Securities Specialists

Boston, May 24, 2010 — Analysis Group, Inc., a leading provider of economic, finance, and strategy expertise, is pleased to announce the promotions of health economist Eric Qiong Wu to Managing Principal in our Boston office and securities specialist Marnie A. Moore to Principal in our Los Angeles office, effective immediately.

Dr. Wu joined the firm in 2002 and is an internationally recognized expert in Health Economics and Outcomes Research (HEOR). His engagements have spanned the breadth of HEOR, including global formulary and reimbursement submission; clinical and retrospective data analyses; comparative efficacy, safety, and cost-effectiveness research; early stage product evaluation; and methodological advances in health economics and outcomes research.

Ms. Moore began her career at Analysis Group in 1993, and has become one of the leaders of the firm's securities practice. In addition to providing clients with a high level of analytical and statistical expertise involving complex databases, Ms. Moore has managed multiple high-profile securities litigations stemming from the Orange County, California bankruptcy in the 1990s; 10b-5 matters involving Cendant and Enron; and the multi-year Bristol-Myers Squibb litigation, in which she led the firm's support of multiple affiliated experts in the areas of financial economics, securities analysis, and the wholesale distribution of pharmaceutical products.

"Eric's intellectual rigor, outstanding technical skills, and careful strategic growth have made him an integral part of our health care practice. And Marnie's consistent contribution of her analytical insights, managerial expertise, and collaborative spirit have resulted in first-rate work for our clients. We are very excited to have Eric and Marnie as part of our partnership," said firm President and CEO Martha Samuelson.

Analysis Group (www.analysisgroup.com) is the largest privately held economic consulting firm in North America. Providing economic, financial, and strategy consulting to corporations, law firms, industry, and government agencies since 1981, the firm is distinguished by the depth of our health care expertise. Our health care clients include many of the nation's largest pharmaceutical, biotechnology, and medical device manufacturers.

Analysis Group's interdisciplinary staff consists of more than 475 professionals, with advanced degrees in economics, statistics, epidemiology, medicine, finance, accounting, and business administration. We also work closely with a network of academic experts, key opinion leaders, and physicians at leading universities who help us develop and present state-of-the-art solutions for our clients. Much of our work is published in leading academic and health care industry journals.
