Boston, September 13, 2006 — Analysis Group, a leading economic consulting firm, announced that Laura Boothman Stamm and W. Dana Northcut would help expand senior leadership in the firm's New York and Chicago offices, respectively. Ms. Stamm will now co-lead the firm's New York office, along with Managing Principal Elizabeth Becker, and continue to serve clients in Boston as well as New York. She was instrumental in opening the firm's New York office in 2000. An expert in the application of finance and accounting to complex business litigation, she testifies frequently on damages arising out of securities litigations, intellectual property matters, and commercial disputes.

Ms. Stamm has assisted attorneys in New York and nationally with pretrial discovery, development of economic and financial models to analyze damages, critique of analyses of opposing experts, and preparation of expert reports and testimony. She joined Analysis Group in 1993 and became a Managing Principal in 1998.

"With Managing Principal Elizabeth Becker and our terrific New York staff, we have established a solid reputation in New York over the past several years," said Martha Samuelson, President and CEO of Analysis Group. "Now, with Laura joining the helm, we have an enhanced platform for serving clients across many areas of law and business."

"I am looking forward to spending more time in New York, both with clients and the Analysis Group staff," Ms. Stamm said. "Since we first opened our office in Manhattan, I have built some strong and enduring relationships here. Elizabeth Becker and I are excited about the opportunity to work together leading the office."

W. Dana Northcut, Ph.D., has joined Analysis Group as a Managing Principal from Chicago Partners. Along with Managing Principal Jonathan Arnold, Dr. Northcut will help build the firm's new Chicago office, which opened earlier this year. He is an expert in accounting, valuation, and financial and damages analysis, and he testifies regularly in accounting disputes. Most recently, he testified on behalf of Honeywell in a $700 million fraudulent conveyance matter, in which Honeywell prevailed. Dr. Northcut has provided consulting and testifying expertise in a broad range of other litigation areas including securities fraud, antitrust, breach of contract, and trade secrets matters, and has appeared as an expert in state and federal courts and in various administrative forums.

"Dana is an outstanding addition to our Chicago office, which we were so pleased to open earlier this year," said Ms. Samuelson. "The firm's talent in Chicago is already very impressive, and Dana's expertise, particularly in the area of finance and accounting litigation, will allow us to expand the services we offer existing clients as well as reach out to new ones."

"I am very pleased to join Analysis Group," Dr. Northcut said. "I look forward to working with Jonathan Arnold and the other members of the Chicago office to provide expert accounting and economic advice to our clients."
