Analysis Group at a glance

We provide economics consulting services to top law firms, Fortune Global 500 companies, global health care corporations, and government agencies. Our work is grounded in the principles and practices of economic analysis – whether we are conducting quantitative assessments related to litigation or developing models for use in corporate strategic planning.

Founded in 1981

One of the largest economics consulting firms

More than 900 professionals across 14 offices in North America, Europe, and Asia

An extensive network of distinguished academic affiliates, government and industry experts, and internal experts

Our Work

We have worked on thousands of cases across multiple industries for clients large (Citibank, Coca-Cola, Disney, Google, Johnson & Johnson, Mastercard, Microsoft) and small (entrepreneurial startups, artists, inventors). We have built a reputation for excellence by providing fact-based, objective interpretations of complex legal and business issues, and developing state-of-the-art analyses and insights for our clients.

Our consultants work closely with a network of distinguished academic authorities and specialized industry experts to translate economic theory into real-world legal and business practice. These include deans of some of the top business schools; former presidential advisors; and renowned authorities in economics, finance, securities, valuation, governance, and strategy.

Our Culture

Excellence and Rigor

We are committed to delivering high quality in all that we do, and value work that is error-free and views that are backed up by data and facts.

Collaboration

We believe in tackling tough problems together; the people who do best here have strong interpersonal skills in conjunction with technical expertise.

Development of Self & Others

Our most valuable asset is our people, so a central aspect of our culture is helping each other grow. We also believe in personal agency, where employees are in charge of their learning experiences.

Trust & Respect

We believe good ideas can come from anyone. We also expect that people at all levels will speak up when something isn't working, even if it's hard to do.

Opportunity

We seek individuals with a demonstrated ability in economics, finance, accounting, health policy and outcomes, statistics, business strategy, and similar disciplines that emphasize expertise in quantitative and qualitative analysis. Our professionals are motivated by intellectual curiosity and a passion for solving complex business and litigation problems.

We're large enough to work on the high-profile cases behind tomorrow's headlines, but small enough that each team member can contribute fully in engagements.

We're structured enough to provide individualized mentoring and development opportunities, yet flexible enough to give you exposure to different practice areas.

We're privately held, which allows us to focus on long-term goals instead of quarterly results.

We work hard, but we strive to maintain balance with life outside the office, including team sports, community-building activities, and employee-designed events. Case-related travel is minimal.

Your Career at Analysis Group

There is a defined career path at our firm (we also offer internship opportunities):

Advancement is based on merit, reflecting your contributions to case work and client and affiliate relationships. As your career evolves, you will have numerous opportunities to play ever-larger roles in the growth and management of the firm. At every stage, you will receive comprehensive feedback and mentoring.

As an analyst with Analysis Group, you will:

- Conduct market and company research
- Perform data analysis, including econometric estimation of models and implementation of financial models
- Develop computer programs using SAS, STATA, and other technologies
- Participate in case team meetings and discussions
- Perform qualitative research such as reviewing and summarizing analyst reports and client documents

We are invested in your professional development and growth, and provide multidimensional support for analysts who plan to apply to graduate school. After a few years with the firm, analysts often attend top M.B.A., J.D., Ph.D., or other masters programs. Many former analysts return to Analysis Group as associates after completing graduate programs.

As an associate with Analysis Group, you will assume responsibility early on for handling critical components of client case work. Specifically, you will:

- Identify the central economic issues underlying specific client problems
- Develop the analytical frameworks to solve those problems
- Formulate economic and financial models
- Conduct empirical research
- Work closely with senior consultants, internal experts, and academic affiliates
- Participate in case team and client meetings
